Past performance cannot guarantee future results. Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal and fluctuation of value. Returns greater than one year are annualized. Returns are expressed in U.S. dollars. Composite returns are net of transaction costs and gross of non-reclaimable withholding taxes, if any, and reflect the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings.

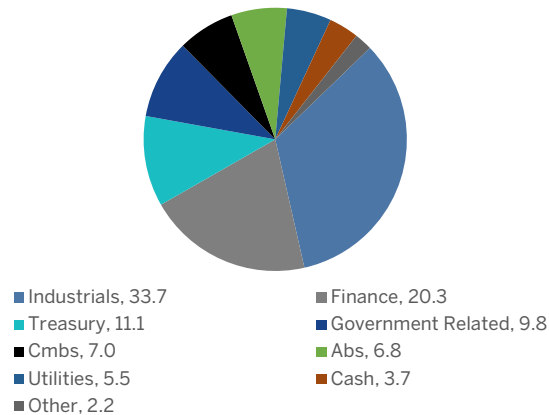

Gross-of-fees returns are presented before management and custodial fees but after all trading expenses. Net-of-fees returns are calculated by deducting 1/12 of the highest tier of the standard fee schedule in effect for the period noted (the model fee). The composite model fee for each period is either the highest tier of the current fee schedule or a higher value, whichever is required to ensure the model composite net-of-fee return is lower than or equal to the composite net-of-fee return calculated using actual fees. Actual fees may vary depending on, among other things, the applicable fee schedule and portfolio size. The firm's fees are available on request and may be found on Part II of its Form ADV.

QUALITY STRUCTURE

The USAA Income Fixed Income Composite includes all institutional and retail portfolios invested primarily in U.S. dollar-denominated fixed-income securities that have been selected for their high yields relative to the risk involved. The fixed-income securities in which the composite portfolio invests include obligations of U.S., state, and local governments, and their agencies and instrumentalities; mortgage- and asset-backed securities; corporate debt securities; and repurchase agreements. Composite portfolio also may invest in income-producing common stock, preferred securities, and other securities believed to have debt-like characteristics. The strategy aims to deliver maximum current income without undue risk to principal. High yield bonds carry increased levels of credit and default risk and are less liquid than government and investment grade bonds. The composite creation date is July 2019. The benchmark of the composite is the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index.

The Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index is generally considered to be representative of U.S. bond market activity. The index does not incur fees and expenses and is not available for direct investment.

The fixed income securities are subject to price volatility and number of risks, including interest rate risk. Interest rates and bond prices move in opposite directions so that as interest rates rise, bond prices usually fall, and vice versa. Interest rates are currently at historically low levels. Fixed income securities also carry other risks, such as inflation risk, liquidity risk, call risk, and credit and default risks. Lower-quality fixed income securities involve greater risk of default or price changes. Securities of non-U.S. issuers generally involve greater risks than U.S. investments, and can decline significantly in response to adverse issuer, political, regulatory, market, and economic risks. Fixed-income securities sold or redeemed prior to maturity may be subject to loss.

Index returns are provided to represent the investment environment during the periods shown. The index is fully invested, including the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains. Index returns do not include transaction costs, management fees or other costs. Non-US indices are net of withholding taxes, if any.

The top ten issuers and sector diversification are presented to illustrate examples of the portfolio's investments and may not be representative of the portfolio's current or future investments.

Holdings are as of quarter end and may change at any time. This material should not be construed as a recommendation to buy or sell any security.

Information relating to portfolio holdings is based on the representative account in the composite and may vary for other accounts in the strategy due to asset size, client guidelines and other factors. The representative account is believed to most closely reflect the current portfolio management style.
